AUTO TIP: During the first 200 to 500 miles of driving, the engine should not be allowed to operate at a steady, unvarying speed.

by Harold Chitwood

The first 200 to 500 miles of driving a new car can be critical; although less so now than in the past. During this period, while the owner is familiaring himself with the car, its major mechanical components, the engine, transmission, differential and the clutch, if there is one, are undergoing the first strains of sustained operation. If a new car is handled judiciously, this break-in period will set up the engine for a long, trouble-free life. If the new owner is careless and ignores the guidelines he may be setting the stage for premature mechanical failure and inviting costly repair bills.

No matter what you purchase, be it a car, hew coat or television, you must take care for it to insure it will last as long as possible. We all know that northing is made to last as long as it did 20 years ago but by taking proper care of your can you can add years to its fife. Come see us BIG 4 CHEYROLET COMPANY at 1820 Vandalis Street in Collinskille or call 345-5444, for all your automotive needs. Our experienced staff will be glad, to help you. Our hours are Monday thur Friday 7-6 and our number one concern is your satisfaction.

Task force studies proposals to attract high tech companies

Governor James R. Thompson opened the first meeting of the Governor's High Tech Task Force, Monday, launching an effort to study ways to expand the high technology industry in Illinois.

"Illinois has the potential to become the center of high technology in the Midwest," the governor told task force members. "We have the resources, the people and the know-how to set the trend in this expanding industry. Illinois has an excellent opportunity to enhance its industrial base and attract high technology companies through the efforts of the task force. Our task will be to explore the possibility of establishing a high tech research center in Illinois to attract those companies," he said.
